WHAT I DO

Today's business leaders have more problems to solve than ever. And because there's so much, it can be overwhelming, exhausting, and defeating. (I hate that.)

So I teach strategies leaders can use every day to make better decisions with less stress, in less time. After using these strategies, they feel---and become--more successful in their work (and actually, in their life outside of work, too.)

WHO I HELP

LEADERS &
HIGH-PERFORMING PROFESSIONALS WHO ARE:

- Wrestling through major change, whether positive (such as business growth), or negative (such customer loss or personal stress).
- Newly promoted or hired & needing to get productive fast.
- Experienced in their technical subject but needing to grow their business acumen, communication & people skills.
- In a team that must work better together to achieve a business result or goal.
- Weighing their next career decision (whether inside or outside their existing organization) and asking "what's next for me."
- Knowing they need to retain and engage the best employees in order to sustain business success.

WHERE I SPEAK

- Leader, employee or team development events.
- Customer & client appreciation events.
- Department or affinity group professional development meetings.
- Within technical or company-specific training as an energy booster.
- Professional & trade association meetings, workshops & conferences.
- On webinars & teleseminars for companies and professional groups.
